IDEAS / CONCERNS

SHAPE:

To design a shape to the CD that is reflective of:

- A). The past and present participants experience with our program
- B). The natural narrative flow of any given program, ex: how we shape the list of material in an hour.

VOICES:

The idea that many voices will be heard on the recording: male, female and especially children. The idea that this recording would be of great interest as well for a young child and so we would be mindful that children love to hear other children's voices.

EX. Sean Veacock
Peter Ens
Dave Robertson
Ruth's Dave

CONTENT:

Available traditional "tried and true" selections as well as some originals. Song, rhyme and story would all be reflective of a given hour of Mother Goose.

QUESTIONS:

Should the story / stories appear at the end? How would the placement of the story affect the flow of the recording?

Who would like to be part of the recording?

Can we choose the track selections at this time?

Dates?

IDEAS AND CONCERNS CON'T - MAY 29/03

Summarize group-by-group favorites narrowing down the most requested and make note of participant's reasons for these selections for further decisions for CD text.

When this list is compiled I might e-mail it to all involved so that they can make their decisions regarding their participation in project.

At the next staff meeting on June 10, we should pin down some recording dates.

To be very careful with copyright. Ex: Mr. Sun listed as a Raffi song in the book "I'm a Teapot" (202) - yet listed as a "traditional" on (page 135) in the book, "Baby Games."

STORY:

- Should we include a story appropriate from an infant and a toddler program?
- To have rhymes tie together with the story- but does this reflect what we usually do?
- The stories must be traditional to bypass copyright concerns.
- Mention movements to the story within the text of CD. Ex. Key To the Kingdom. (Who wrote this story?)
